The program and dinner will be open to the general public, with adult tickets available at $9 each and tickets for children under 12 at $5.

Tickets may be purchased from Bob Thompson on the ninth floor of the Sycamore Building, 19 S. 6th St., or from Mike McCormick, Bob Murray, Turk Roman, Merrill Bonebrake, Ray Norris, or from the sports department of The Tribune or The Star.

Starr was a four-year letterman at Alabama, where he quarterbacked the Crimson Tide to a bowl victory over Syracuse his sophomore year, and was drafted 17th by the Green Bay Packers in 1956.

After being an understudy to Tobin Rote in 1957, Starr shared the Packer signal-calling duties with Lamar McHan and Babe Parilli in 1958. He then started and won the last four games of the 1960 season and was firmly established as a regular.

Starr led the Packers to the National Football League's Western Division title in 1960, and to the Western Division and World championships in 1961, 1962, 1965, 1966 and 1967. He was the NFL's leading passer in 1962, 1964, and 1966.

He still holds the NFL record for the fewest per cent of interceptions in a career and the record for the most consecutive passes (294) without an interception. He also owns the NFL record for the highest per cent of career completions (57.5%) and was voted the Most Valuable Player in the NFL in 1966 and the MVP of the Super Bowl games in 1967 and 1968.

After serving as quarterback coach for the Packers in 1972, Starr became a member of the CBS television sports crew for football telecasts this season.

At present he is president of Bart Starr Distributors, Inc., Green Bay, and resides in DePere, Wisconsin, with his wife and two sons.
